BIRDS OF A FEATHER

EUROPE

The pigs flee Finland with eggs in hand and the birds are in hot pursuit. They blaze a confusing path of destruction across Europe. After many stops to visit with old relatives and view historical landmarks they jump the pond. North America will never be the same.

N. AMERICA

After hours in customs, the birds and pigs arrive in New York. Their battlefields pepper the continent like birdshot. Tired and weary they take a few days to soak up some rays in the Carribean before continuing southward...

S. AMERICA

The pigs get momentary respite from the birds and schedule a meeting in Rio to get weapons training from the marmosets. After a brief tutorial on snout-to-beak combat and a raucous pep-talk, the birds arrive and carnage ensues...

AFRICA

The pigs and birds arrive in South Africa and leave a wake of destruction behind them as they head north. After enduring scorching desert, the birds become distracted by the Riddle of the Sphinx...

The pigs flee across the Suez.

ASIA

While the battle spreads across Asia, the birds and pigs contact Guinness to report their battle atop Mount Everest. After blasting a hole through the Great Wall, the birds catch up to the pigs in Tokyo...

AUSTRALIA

Island-hopping across the Pacific and marveling at the Great Barrier Reef, the birds and pigs regain their heads in the Great Victoria Desert. "Great, more heat"...

The pigs are pinned, backed into a corner. The only place to go is.... South. Brrrrrr

ANTARTICA

The birds are grinning with excitement. Not only is victory looming, but they found another flightless bird! While the pigs hide in penguin suits, no ice on Earth can stop the birds...

The battle rages on!
